
Thank you Note

Sarmatian Review and the Polish Institute of Houston are grateful to those readers who support the journal over and above the price of subscription. Without them it would be difficult to continue publication. Donations to Sarmatian Review and its publisher, the Polish Institute of Houston, are tax deductible. Recent donors include:

Dr. Anna Frąjlich-Zajac; Drs. Waldemar and Teresa Priebe; Mr. Kenneth W. Walpuck; Ms. Joanne F. Winetzki.

Kornel Makuszyński's aphorisms

Any idiot can live happily if he has money: it is an art to be happy without money.
(Kartki z kalendarza)

History is like bigos—a hard-to-digest stew that has been stewing not for a week but for thousands of years.
(Szatan z siódmej klasy)

One should not try to wake up unhealthy hope in others.
(List z tamtego świata)

Joy is creative; sadness is not.
(Awantura o Basię)

People tend to think that their suffering is the most unique and greatest in the world. Yet it is only a drop in the sea of suffering.
(Szaleństwa Panny Ewy)

The man who loves deeply is afraid of words.
(Maki)

If the first man were a lawyer, the expulsion from Paradise would have taken thousands of years.

Give where it really counts

Support Sarmatian Review!

Prices for mailing and related expenses are skyrocketing. We ask our readers to "give here, and give now," if at all possible.

Yes, we are changing our design. That too involves expenses. Please be patient and we shall eventually get it right! We are not a subsidized journal, with all the consequences that follow.
