The Changing Face of Race in America

Juan Williams is an Emmy Award-winning writer, radio, and television correspondent who has written for The Washington Post and has appeared on-air on NPR, Fox News, and PBS. He is also the author of the nonfiction bestseller Eyes on the Prize: America's Civil Rights Years, 1954-1965, the companion volume to the critically acclaimed television series. Williams' most recent book is Enough: The Phony Leaders, Dead-End Movements, and Culture of Failure That Are Undermining Black America—and What We Can Do About It, a critical look at the current generation of black leaders, African American life, culture, and politics.
