

Research Interest

Hi! I've just joined Rice and Psychology Department as a new graduate student. Basically, I am interested in studying visual attention and perception in a developmental perspective. I expect to do researches focusing on infants and babies. They are so cute, by the way. By comparing the results of babies with adults, hopefully, we will have a better understanding about not only this early period, but also our whole life, I think.