Chief Operating Officer
AMEC plc – Natural Resources

Neil Bruce, 45, is the Chief Operating Officer of AMEC plc – Natural Resources.

Neil joined AMEC in 1997 and after two years of consistent progress, Neil was appointed Managing Director of AMEC's Upstream Oil & Gas division, in October 1999. In October 2003, a single Oil and Gas division was created combining the Upstream and Downstream global divisions, and Neil was appointed Managing Director. In May 2006, AMEC created an expanded Natural Resources division which covers AMEC's global activities in oil and gas, oil sands and mining. Natural Resources division accounts for over fifty percent of the operating profits of AMEC's Energy and Process business.

AMEC plc is a leading international provider of total life-of-asset services to customers with revenues of £5 billion. The Natural Resources division provides two main services in the energy and process industries: asset development and asset support services for the development of oil, gas and mining facilities.

These services are underpinned by specialist technology services, which provide high value technical services such as environmental and training geared to support local requirements.

Neil is a Chartered Engineer and has a Masters Degree both from Newcastle University and is a fellow of the Institute of Directors, with over 25 years experience in the oil and gas industry, a career which has covered a number of senior management roles in upstream and downstream, in various regions of the world. Formerly at Atlantic Richfield (Arco) where Neil held positions of Construction Manager and Field Development Manager.

Neil is a keen supporter of industry development, and is currently a member of the International Oil & Gas Business Advisory Board. During April 2006, Neil completed the three year Chairmanship of the Offshore Contractors Association, and was former member of the Step Change in Safety group, CRINE Industry initiatives and the Northern Offshore Federation.

AMEC's shares are traded on the London Stock Exchange where the company is listed in the Support Services sector.
