Information Notes

My name was listed in the article, "The American Political Science Review Hall of Fame," in the March 1996 issue of PS: Political Science and Politics as one of 72 scholars who have published 5 or more articles in the APSR in the past 40 years. I have published 6 articles in the APSR, the official journal of the American Political Science Association, although the PS article inadvertently listed my publications as 5. I have also published 3 articles in the American Journal of Political Science, the official journal of the Midwest Political Science Association.

My primary research preoccupation in the 1997-2001 period was the completion of the manuscript, A Statistical History of the American Electorate for Congressional Quarterly Press. This book was voted "Best Reference Source 2001" by the Library Journal (April 2002 issue) and designated "Outstanding Academic Book 2003" by Choice Magazine (January 2003 issue).

My current five-year book project is entitled Electoral Procedures and Election Reform, 1788-2006, which is similar in style and purpose to my earlier book, A Statistical History of the American Electorate, and covers data recovery and analysis of the election procedures used by the states throughout the history of our Union, including discussions of legislative intent in adoption and change in these election rules, impact of these rules on the American voter, and consequences of these rule adoptions and changes in American voting behavior across time, including system consequences of these laws on party politics, electoral competition, and changes in political power in governmental office.
